

REBUILD COST TABLES

The Rebuild Cost Tables screen appears after a change has been made that alters costs in one or more areas of the program. If you are making a lot of changes or the computer is only used to view files, then Turn Off Local Rebuild should be checked in the Administrator Files screen. This turns off the local rebuild for the computer where the option was set. This does not change other computers on the network. Some rebuild memory file functions will still run to insure data integrity but the main costs calculations are disabled. You can force a rebuild even if the option is turned off from the Administrator Files screen.
